

CDTRP 2026 Meeting Remuneration Policy

Academic speakers at the CDTRP Scientific Meeting do not receive remuneration.

Patients, family, and donor partners invited by CDTRP to participate in person as speakers or moderators will receive compensation at a rate of $250 per day, as well as travel support, including, where applicable, airfare, ground transportation, and accommodation, subject to the meeting travel policy.

Patients, family, and donor partners invited by CDTRP to present virtually will receive $50 per hour, up to a maximum honorarium of $150, for time spent preparing and delivering their presentation.

Patients, family, and donor partners invited by researchers to serve as speakers or moderators in researcher-initiated sessions or workshops should discuss compensation and travel support directly with the inviting researcher. Compensation is the responsibility of the researcher and must be covered within the researcher's project or workshop budget, unless explicitly agreed upon between the researcher and the CDTRP. CDTRP encourages researchers to follow the same remuneration rates outlined above for in-person and virtual participation.

Patients, family, and donor partners who choose to attend the meeting in person or virtually without an invited speaking or moderating role are not eligible for remuneration or travel support.
